PREREQUISITES

Permission of MPH Program

PURPOSE AND OUTCOME

Course Overview

The special project serves as the basis of a written report and an oral or poster presentation as well as the culminating experience of the MPH program. It should be a substantial project which involves identification of a question/problem/issue, review of relevant literature, application of appropriate public health methods, description of results, discussion, and identification of strengths and weaknesses. If a student is part of a team working on a large project, the student's special project is the piece for which s/he is responsible. Students will present their special project on Public Health Day, which is scheduled every semester (fall, spring, and summer). Students are expected to use the special project presentation to demonstrate mastery of the broad field of public health and to articulate how MPH competencies and concentration competencies are strengthened by the project.

Relation to Program Outcomes

CEPH 2011 Accreditation Criteria - Culminating Experience. "All graduate professional degree programs, both professional public health and other professional degree programs...shall assure that each student demonstrates skills and integration of knowledge through a culminating experience."

Course Objectives and/or Goals

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS AND GRADING

Assignments

Special Project Paper:

The special project paper includes an in-depth, scholarly discussion of the manner in which 2 core MPH competencies and 3 concentration competencies are involved in the project. Students are expected to use this opportunity to demonstrate their mastery of the broad field of public health. Written reports should be 15-20 double spaced pages (APA Style), exclusive of graphics and references. Students must submit their drafts and final paper to the Assignment link on the eLearning PHC 6601 course. This submission will validate the originality of the paper. Students should make all resubmissions of their paper via this same link.

Public Health Day Presentation:

For Fall 2021, campus students should plan to present in person. The in-person presentation format for campus students is subject to change based on public health trends related to the COVID-19 pandemic. Online students will present in an online format.

Students will receive their schedule at minimum of one week before Public Health Day. An oral presentation based on the paper is made during a Public Health Day in the first month of the student's final semester in the program. The dates of Public Health Days are announced at the beginning of the semester, and specific times for each presentation are posted in advance of the presentations. These oral and written reports constitute the culminating experience and the final comprehensive examination for the MPH program.

Students are required to upload their presentation (power point) and an abstract two days prior to Public Health day. On Public Health Day students are required to bring 15-20 copies of the abstract with them for distribution to the audience.

Each student is allocated 20 minutes: 15 minutes for the formal presentation, followed by a 5 minute question and answer period. The Background portion should only last for about 2-3 minutes of the 15-minute presentation. The background may be discussed in more detail in the paper, but the presentation should focus primarily on the Methods, Results, Discussion and Implication. Make sure that at least a slide or 2 in the presentation list those MPH competencies and concentration competencies that are demonstrated or addressed in the special project work plan.

For Remote Presenters:

- Students will receive their schedule at minimum of one week before Public Health Day. You will receive an email from Amanda Kastner (alkastner@phhp.ufl.edu) with a Zoom link for your presentation.
- You will receive a Zoom guide for presenters.
- It's critical that you log in at least 5 minutes early for your presentation. Someone from the MPH program will be on each Zoom meeting to act as the timekeeper and to help with any technical issues.
- Silence your phones and computer notifications. Dress professionally, as you would have for public health day. Ensure that you have a quiet place to present. Look around the room to see what might be in the background that you don't want people to see. Try not to have a window or bright light behind you because it will create a silhouette effect.

- Abstracts are still required, and are due in Canvas and to your faculty advisor on Monday 11/15/21.
- Please note that presentations will be recorded for review by the MPH program.
- Create your presentation as you would have done if giving it in person (preferably PowerPoint). Have your faculty advisor review your slides before you finalize them.
- During the Zoom meeting, you can share your screen and present your slides.
- You'll have up to 15 minutes to present, followed by up to 5 minutes of questions from your faculty reviewers.
- Keep in mind that you should refer to the special project assessment form (attached) when creating your presentation. You should practice your talk to ensure that you can complete it within the 15 minute time frame.

Before Public Health Days, students will practice their presentations with the Internship Coordinator or Academic Assistant (online students). Supervisors of these practice sessions will provide feedback on the content as well as presentation style and delivery methods. Remote presenters will also be given technical guidance and support during the practice session.

Students are expected to consult with their faculty advisors at least once every other week and with their preceptors weekly as they develop their reports. At a minimum, students should have a meeting with the faculty monthly to evaluate progress and decide on subsequent meetings. It is also recommended that students practice their presentation with their faculty advisor.

All students and preceptors are invited to attend Public Health Day. Two faculty members will attend each oral or poster presentation and provide feedback to the student and faculty advisor.

Two faculty members representing different concentrations assess the quality of the presentation's content. In general, the project itself should demonstrate your ability to apply one or more of your concentration competencies. Your ability to integrate the MPH core competencies should be evident throughout the paper and presentation. For example, a project may involve biostatistical analysis and an epidemiological research design to produce results that will inform policy decisions.

Content of Paper and Presentation:

The written and oral reports should include the following content as appropriate to the topic:

Background

- Summary of critical literature
- Rationale and/or need for the project
- Objectives or specific aims

Description of methods

- Hypotheses (if necessary)
- Specific identification of methods used in needs assessments, policy analysis, epidemiological analysis, financial management, program planning, evaluation, etc., noting how methods of concentrations other than your own were used
- Justification of methods

- Stakeholder involvement, as appropriate

Results

- Description of findings/outcomes
- Relationship of findings to objectives, aims, or hypotheses
- Appropriate use of tables, charts, and other graphics
- Interpretation of findings

Discussion

- Relationship of findings to literature cited in the summary of critical literature
- Strengths and limitations
- Generalizability

Implications

- Implications for research and/or practice
- Relationship of this project to the internship experience (if applicable)
- MPH and concentration competencies strengthened by this project
- Lessons learned from this project/recommendations for future projects

Grading

The course uses the standard letter grade format of the University of Florida. In order to receive a grade for the course, students MUST meet all requirements identified above. A letter grade is derived from submission of a special project paper (50%), completion of an oral presentation (50%).

Portions of the paper submitted on Canvas by the due dates are graded as complete or incomplete. If graded as incomplete, faculty will provide feedback and suggested changes. Students are required to review the feedback and make revisions based on suggested changes, and resubmit that portion of the paper.

Point system used (i.e., how do course points translate into letter grades).

Points earned
Letter Grade	A	A-	B+	B	B-	C+	C	C-	D+	D	D-	E

Please be aware that a C- is not an acceptable grade for graduate students. A grade of C counts toward a graduate degree only if an equal number of credits in courses numbered 5000 or higher have been earned with an A. In addition, the Bachelor of Health Science Program does not use C- grades.

Letter grade to grade point conversions are fixed by UF and cannot be changed.

Letter Grade	A	A-	B+	B	B-	C+	C	C-	D+	D	D-	E	WF	I	NG	S-U
Grade Points	4.0	3.67	3.33	3.0	2.67	2.33	2.0	1.67	1.33	1.0	0.67	0.0	0.0	0.0	0.0	0.0

For greater detail on the meaning of letter grades and university policies related to them, see the Grading and Grade Policies posted by the Registrar's Office.

INCLUSIVE LEARNING ENVIRONMENT

Public health and health professions are based on belief in human dignity and on respect for the individual. As we share our personal beliefs inside or outside of the classroom, it is always with the understanding that we value and respect diversity of background, experience, and opinion, where every individual feels valued. We believe in, and promote, openness and tolerance of differences in ethnicity and culture, and we respect differing personal, spiritual, religious and political values. We further believe that celebrating such diversity enriches the quality of the educational experiences we provide our students and enhances our own personal and professional relationships. We embrace the University of Florida's Non-Discrimination Policy, which reads:

“The University shall actively promote equal opportunity policies and practices conforming to laws against discrimination. The University is committed to non-discrimination with respect to race, creed, color, religion, age, disability, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, marital status, national origin, political opinions or affiliations, genetic information and veteran status as protected under the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act.”
